Title: Noughts and Crosses

Genre: Realistic fiction, Romance, Dystopian Fiction

The story is about a girl named Persephone Hadley (known as Sephy in the book) and Callum McGregor. Sephy is a Cross, a more socially accepted person, whereas Callum is a Nought, who is looked down upon because of his white skin. The book explains the relationship between the two and what events occur in their lives; Callum being one of the few Noughts to get into the Cross school Sephy attends, Callum's family having bad luck, Sephy going to Chivers Boarding School and the Liberation Militia; a terrorist Nought group who ended up making fate possible - Sephy and Callum being the parents of Callie Rose...

The main characters are Sephy Hadley and Callum McGregor. My favourite character is Sephy because she is nice and wanted the best for Callum and the other characters, such as her mother.

I disliked the fact that there was tragedy in the first book.

I would recommend the book to people over the age of thirteen as the book is based on inequality between people and a terrorist group which is not very suitable for younger audiences.

Out of ten stars, I would give it 10/10 because the content was interesting and there were no parts where I wanted to stop reading. The betrayal made the book exciting and made you feel emotions such as sadness and worry.
